Smith wanted to know if there was anything we all could do to get people to pay their dues to prevent having to raise them. No one could think of any solution. • Mark Griffin commented that he had purchased foreclosed property and that it was behind on dues because it was combined with properties that was not part of the purchase and he didn't want to pay the delinquent dues. The board agreed to take the matter under consideration and get back with him. • Brandon Jones and Sue Turner commented on the group of people that collected money for pictures. They believed they were rude, pushy, not dressed appropriately and visited homes too late in the evening. Several others from the audience stated the same sentiments. The board agreed to address the matter during the next fund raiser.
